

Lithotech is a leading supplier of materials and services in support of free and fair elections worldwide. From ballot boxes and printed materials to customised supply kits and battle-tested IT solutions, Lithotech provides a complete range of materials and services in support of the democratic process.

While procurement of election materials is an important element of a successful voter registration programme and government elections, Lithotech offers much more. For clients on the African and European continents, Lithotech has ensured that material supply is fully integrated into other parts of the election cycle, from initial feasibility and costing studies, to final delivery, implementation and support, including the training of election officials.

With Lithotech, nothing is left to chance. Working side-by-side with election officials, we help develop customised solutions that work, and then implement them.

Our services include:

- Printing
- Lithographic printing
- Digital (laser) printing
- Specialised programming

- Procurement
- Assembly of customised supply kits

- Training on correct use of registration and voting equipment
- Custom product development
- Design and layout
- Specialised papers and processes
- Access to international research and development

- Consulting services, including:
 - Materials specification and budgeting
 - Project planning, scheduling and management
 - Accounting, auditing and financial management

- On-site quality control inspection
- Documentation